Festival Musicians Arriving

Bach Festival musicians begin arriving in Carmel this week end for orchestra rehearsals which start on Sunday in Sunset School Auditorium. First to rehearse will be the strings. Out-of-town singers and the winds are due on Wednesday, followed by the brasses on Friday. Saturday and Sunday soloists will arrive. Already occupying a house in Carmel is Bach Festival conductor Sandor Salgo, Mrs. Salgo and their small daughter. Ralph Linsley, Festival pianist, has been greeting Carmel friends all this week. The Festival Chorus, directed by Mr. Salgo and his assistants, Angie Machado and Gilbert Boyer, has been rehearsing here for several months with Mr. Salgo coming from Palo Alto for most rehearsals.

On July 20 the opening concert of the twenty-second Bach Festival will be held at Sunset School Auditorium at 8:30 o'clock. Festival events will continue with concerts each evening, except Wednesday, through July 26, when two performances of the B Minor Mass will be given, one at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, the second at 8:30 o'clock in the evening.

Tuesday and Thursday afternoons there will be organ recitals in the Church of the Wayfarer. Wednesday morning, Alfred Frankenstein will lecture at the Carmel Woman's Club on the lesser known composers featured on Festival programs this season. Thursday morning Mr. Frankenstein will moderate a panel discussion on Bach versus Handel. Panel speakers will be Dr. David

Two-Diamond Woman Glider Pilot Is Carmel Visitor

Mrs. Clyde Campbell (Virginia), only woman glider pilot who may wear the two-diamond pin awarded by the International Gliders Society, left Carmel on Tuesday after a week here visiting Mrs. Anne Bosworth and Mrs. Henry Meade (Mona) Williams.

With Ginny Campbell were her two children, Christina and Kim. On Sunday they sail for New Zealand to join Mr. Campbell, Overseas Firestone representative, and will live there for the next three years.

Since their marriage the Campbells have lived for three-year periods in South America, Sweden and Germany. Mona Williams visited them in Hamburg a year ago after receiving an introduction through Anne Bosworth.

During her visit, Mona was taken on a glider flight by Ginny Campbell who holds European distance and endurance glider records. During the last war she was an Army pilot, testing planes and flying personnel.

She wears a pin centered by three gliders with two diamonds set in the circumference, the only woman honored with the second highest gliding award in the world, and hopes soon to add another diamond to her pin, signifying she has equaled or surpassed records set by men gliders.

Dr. Richard Lert Had To Conduct Merry Widow 100 Times Before He Was Allowed To Touch Trovatore

By RAYLYN PENNEY

The lifetime of Dr. Hans Richard Lert has been described as "a bridge with the past, leading into the future."

The 73-year-old conductor of the Pasadena Symphony, who as a young man absorbed the criticism and plaudits of Richard Strauss, fits as easily into his present role as mentor to young American talent.

From his choruses have come such singers as Nan Merriman, Brian Sullivan, and a number of other rising stars of the Metropolitan.

From his orchestras have come leading instrumentalists in symphonies all over the country.

Although he cherishes a long-time friendship with Bruno Walter dating from a period when both were youngsters studying in Vienna, yet he speaks just as enthusiastically of his hopes for a half dozen youngsters still in the learning stages of conducting.

When we went to Asilomar early this week to interview Dr. Lert, who is artistic director for this year's American Symphony Orchestra League West Coast Workshop, we found him experimenting with a new technique of teaching.

Seated in a darkened room with eight of the would-be conductors attending the workshop, he was watching and commenting on a strip of movie film he had had taken of each conductor in action before the workshop orchestra.

"As far as I know the study of conductors' techniques by movie has never been done before," he said. "Next year we hope to have both 'before' and 'after' films made so that we can measure improvement."

The workshop is doing a similar thing with the compositions of the composers there. They are taped for filing in the league's library so that they will be available to orchestras seeking new composing talent. A composer hears his music played, discussed, corrected or modified, and then recorded.

MAYOR BALKS LICENSE HIKE

Mayor John Chitwood postponed first reading of a revised business license ordinance to provide continuous one mill tax. He appointed Councilmen May and Buffington to seek the opinion of the business association on the new schedule.

Traffic Count Shows Striking Difference On Ocean Avenue

A lot of cars are coming into town but only a third of them get to the beach.

Carmel police department took a traffic count June 29 through July 5 on Ocean Avenue at Guadalupe, where the traffic comes pouring down Ocean Avenue into town, and at Ocean between San Antonio and Carmelo, the Ocean Avenue way to the beach. Over the seven day period the average for upper Ocean Avenue was 15,000 cars per day. The lower Ocean Avenue count averaged only 5,838 per day.

There are other ways of driving to the beach than Ocean Avenue, but there are also other heavily used entrances into town.

YATES MAY GET TERM EXTENDED

If the governor gets around to signing Bill 742, George Yates won't have to run for re-election to the school board next year. The bill provides for biennial instead of annual school board elections. Mr. Yates, whose term expires in 1960 will have an additional year on the board before having to decide whether or not he wants to run again, since under the bill no trustee elections will be held until 1961.

ROOMS FOR FESTIVAL PERFORMERS NEEDED

Dene Denny, manager of the Carmel Bach Festival, asked the Pine Cone yesterday to appeal to Carmel residents to assist her in finding lodging for out of town Bach Festival performers.

Anyone who can provide room and private bath at a reasonable rate please phone Bach Festival headquarters, MA 4-2085. Some Carmel music lovers and patrons have already opened their homes to the Bach musicians, but many more accommodations are needed.

Parking License Proposal Rouses Council, Citizens

Last night the city council, with a commendable effort for speed and efficiency, worked through its agenda and adjourned at midnight. The last regular meeting lasted until 12:45. Meetings start at 7:45.

A considerate audience, in response to Mayor John Chitwood's appeal, refrained from repeating their arguments on the relative merits of the two post office sites which they had presented at the joint meeting of the planning commission and council last week, and at the planning commission special meeting Monday night.

But the council members themselves indulged in arguments over sites which were not under consideration, including a lively debate over Councilman Gunnar Norberg's proposal that the city buy Sunset School and build a post office on the corner of the playing field. Councilman Everett May thought the council should ask the post office to delay awarding of the bids until a better site can be found, namely the city corporation yard at the northenst extremity of the business district. Mayor John Chitwood pointed out that the department had not regarded that location with approval, and Councilman James Buffington reminded the council that since there were only two bids in the hands of the post office department, there were only two sites under consideration, the present post office building, which the owners propose to enlarge to meet government requirements, and the Junipero - Seventh street corner of the Fenton block.

Councilman Allen Knight terminated the discussion by moving that the council accept the planning commission's reluctant recommendation for the present site including the planning commission's proviso that 8000 square feet of free parking be furnished without cost to the city. Mayor Chitwood pointed out that this proviso is unrealistic but voted yes, as did Knight and Buffington. Norberg and May voted no.

All this was not accomplished without audience participation. Willing to refrain from repeating their arguments on the old sites, they reasonably enough thought they should be heard when the subject of new sites was introduced.

Councilman Norberg created another time consuming diversion when he proposed that the city require residents, neighbors, tourists, to buy an annual street parking license. This idea was generated among his chain store committee (a misnomer; it is an anti-chain-store committee.) He happily announced that City Attorney John Morse said it was legal, which is farther than he has got with most of his proposals. Then he sat back to enjoy himself while astonished and outraged audience, council members and city officials pelted him with objections.

Mark Raggett, department store proprietor: "You'd get so much publicity that you'd get more people to come to see how foolish we are. This is silly, Gunnar. What are you trying to do? Drive people away. It would be a deterrent to business. There was $13,000 more

Planners To Have Aesthetic Advice From Arts Board

Establishment of a calendar of Peninsula cultural and recreational events, a proposal to assist the planning commission in approving new commercial buildings in Carmel, and informational-directional signs for the Forest Theater were considered by Carmel arts commissioners at their meeting yesterday afternoon.

They appointed a committee, Mrs. Ruth Cooke, chairman, to study the calendar proposal and consult with the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce on this matter.

Arts Commissioner Vaughn Schoemaker suggested that the arts commission work together with the planning commission on new business district buildings. He thought that some members of the arts commission should attend planning commission meetings and see drawings of proposed commercial construction. Arts commissioners, he said, with their artistic ability were qualified to

Progress In Study On Fire Protection For Mission School

A limited joint powers agreement with the state may be the best solution to the city's legal problem of how to provide fire protection for the Junipero Serra School, which is outside the city limits.

City Attorney John Morse, instructed by the city council last month "to look into" a joint powers agreement with the county, has found that an agreement may be made with the state which will protect the city from liability and give it greater initiative in out-of-town fire calls than would the county agreement.

The city now gives fire protection to three public schools and the community hospital outside the city limits. If the council approves the joint powers agreement with the state for the protection of the parochial school, it will probably include the public schools and the hospital. At present protection is offered under an agreement with the hospital and school district boards.

The council postponed decision on Junipero Serra School protection until September 9, at its June meeting, but will probably act at its August meeting so that the agreement will be in effect when school starts.

SAN CARLOS REALTY WINS 1959 LITTLE LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

After relinquishing the title to Boys' Town for the 1958 season, Jack Miller's San Carlos Realty returned to its lofty perch as champions of the Carmel Little League by beating the Carmel Sport Shop, 4 to 1, in a playoff game for the 1959 Little League title. Miller's well-drilled Realty club won the championship in 1957, the opening year of Carmel Little League, and a good job of rebuilding put San Carlos on top again this year after a mediocre season in 1958. The Realtors boast two of the top pitchers in the league in Jeff Zils and Bobby Moffatt and they should make a good showing in the Little League District Playoffs which are slated for later this month.

In trimming Sport Shop, 4 to 1, in the playoff, Zils and Moffatt collaborated to throw a no-hitter, putting out the side in order over the last four frames. The Sports put one run on the board in the second heat when Ronnie Mumford got a life on an infield error and circled the bases to score on a fielder's choice. San Carlos had to scratch to earn the nod over the Sports as Howdy King pitched a nifty three-hitter to keep his gang in close contention. With a shaky one-run lead in the sixth inning, pitcher Moffatt salted the game away by blasting a home run with Craig Cunningham on base to make the final read 4-1. The Realtors picked up a solo in the first frame when Moffatt reached first on an infield miscue and was driven home by Mike Faber's double. Miller's Champs got the go-ahead run in the fifth heat when Matt Little stroked a double and scored on a fielder's choice.

Next Little League action is slated for August 1 when San Carlos Realty plays the Carmel Valley Champion to see who goes to the District Playoffs. In the meantime, all Little League players, Farm Team players, managers, sponsors, parents, and fans will gather at the Fairgrounds Hunt Club for the annual chicken dinner barbecue which is being held Sunday, July 12. First chicken is scheduled to come out of the pit at 1:00 o'clock. Following the barbecue, awards and graduation certificates will be presented to the Little Leaguers by President Bill Woolsey. Tickets for the barbecue may be secured from team managers or may be purchased at the Hunt Club.

LOTS OF SPORTS ACTIVITY FOR YOUTH CENTER

Youth Center Director Jack Giles is keeping the Carmel teenagers plenty busy this summer with a variety of activities at the popular play spot which caters to youngsters in the 13-19 age bracket. In a recent bowling tourney held at the Youth Center outdoor alley, Joe Sponsler topped the field with a two-game score of 378 to take home the first prize. Jim Brown, fully recovered from a recent operation, took runner-up honors with 360, closely followed by Alan Hagar with 358. Bobby Bauman scattered the pins for 282 to get the fourth-place prize. A Mystery Tournament is held at the Youth Center every Tuesday evening and the type of competition is not revealed until the tournament starts.

For real fun, the Thursday night softball games at Sunset Field are hard to beat. Based for the most part on classes at the Carmel High School, these games are run off in speedy fashion and when the lights go out at 10:00 o'clock all the participants are asking for more action. Tonight's feature game matches Carmel High's new senior class with the mighty Alumni aggregation which is undefeated in Youth Center League play. Led by Clyde Klaumann, Andy Gray, and Joe Mason, the Alumni has demonstrated excep-

The Carmel Lions Club held an installation barbecue for incoming officers at the California Water Company's picnic grounds in Carmel Valley Tuesday night.

Almost the entire membership and their ladies attended to see Jim Burgess (above, right) receive the gavel from retiring president Clifford Cook.

Other new officers are Ernest Morehouse, first vice president; Paul Mercurio, second vice president; Dr. James Gilman, secretary; Don Lyons, treasurer; Charles Lunt, lion tamer; Walter Boyle, tailtwister. The board of directors consists of Allan Champe, Charles Seaver, Jim Buffington, Michael Balazs. The installing officer was International Counsellor Dr. William F. Coughlin.

The retiring president received a handsome desk set, and the incoming president a gavel of redwood, the gift of August Nieto. Awards of merit were presented to Allan Champe, Romie Garneau, Ernest Bixler, Dutch Belvail and Dr. Coughlin for exceptionally hard work on club projects. During the past year the Lions have contributed to The Olympic Fund, Girl Scout Building Fund, Peninsula Christmas Basket Fund, shared with the Rotary Club in providing new lighting for Town House, and monthly contributions to the Youth Center. They have paid for eye examinations and glasses for students and townspeople; contributed to Girl Scout Camperships, sponsored the Annual Kite Festival, a Cub Scout pack, and new Explorer Scout Troup, and a student speaker in the Lions Speech Contest. The club presented gold footballs and basketballs to the champion high school players.

Funds for these projects were raised by members and their wives by maintaining a taco booth at the county fair, jazz festival, and SCRAMP races, and by the sale of Christmas trees and the maintainance of the honor system parking lot.

HARVARD TEACHING FELLOW

Patricia Merivale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Merivale, has been appointed a Teaching Fellow in English at Harvard University. As a fellow she will be a full-time resident student in the Harvard Graduate School of Arts and Sciences and teach as part of her training for a Ph.D. degree.

A graduate of Carmel High School, Pat studied at Stanford University and the University of California before going abroad for further study in Europe and at Oxford University in England. She returned for graduate work at Harvard a year ago.

Letters . . .

Dear Wilma:

This country is very beautiful but in a different way from California. I had somehow expected that New York State would be all built up and crowded with towns. But contrary to this, it is full of open spaces, rolling hills and endless fields. Rivers and brooks flow through it all year, and the frequent rainfall keeps them voiceful. The maple woods, groves of silver birches and locusts make a dappled leafy shade wherever you look, and the vistas across the green landscape are unbroken by habitation for miles and miles. From the hillside where we live, about 60 miles up the Hudson, we can look south, north-east and south-west.

But loveliest of all is the ever-changing sequence of the wild flowers. When I came in May, the grass was threaded with wild violets, and at the edges of the fields the white dogwood offered its cool, perfect flowers on level branches. Lilies of the valley had escaped from the garden and grew wild on the hillside. All this is gone too soon, but now we have blue bells. I thought they only grew in dry desert places!

Still I miss my Carmel, with the sea and the pines and the fragrant brown pine needles with the sun on them. We hope to be home in September.

Affectionately,

DORA

Editor's note: Mrs. Louis Mayer signs her poetry Dora Hagemeyer. She enclosed a poem with her letter, which appears in the poetry column, this issue of the Pine Cone.

Woking, Surrey
June 15, 1959

Dear Wilma:

The delight of receiving the Pine Cone is a continual joy. Here I am in the garden reading that the Russell Williams have a grandchild. Time passes quickly, but what fun.

After the most ghastly wet and endless winter, the springtime and early summer days show that England can have its perfect season, too. I tell everybody that it is like Carmel. Katie Schlepp and her husband and small boy came here some weeks back, when we had the garden full of daffodils, anemones and primroses. They found it a contrast to the dreary suburbs that Wayne's studies at the British Museum keep them in at Lee. They had an adventurous journey here, car breaking down and cross country trains and pedestrian extras, but they all seemed to be in great form, finding much to amuse them in our way of life, theatres, museums, and especially the accents of speech, perhaps. They found me busy with the murals for the little chapel of healing at St. Barnabas, Oxford. I was at Oxford in the autumn, giving an exhibition of my Portuguese pictures, and doing portrait drawings when I landed this delightful job of decoration. Strange how things seem to come eventually, if one has just enough yearning. I expect you remember how I was always trying to prepare myself in figure composition at Carmel, and longed for some communal application of my talents. The portraits, landscapes and thousands of drawings have all led towards these things. The subject of the panel is the story of Tobias and the Angel, as St. Raphael is the patron saint of healing. The days and weeks of composition have fled past with the growth of the ideas. There has seldom been

Council Approves Opening Two Streets With One "No" Vote

For the first time in many months, the Carmel City Council had a gallery on its tree tour Tuesday afternoon. Some 15 neighbors gathered at Santa Fe and Fourth to speak for and against opening two streets.

The council voted unanimously to open Fourth between Santa Fe and Santa Rita, and four to one to open Santa Fe between Fourth and Fifth, to permit passage of fire equipment.

The dissenting vote was Councilman Allen Knight's. He thought that opening the one block would be sufficient.

Mr. and Mrs. John Calder, who opposed opening the streets, spoke at the meeting and had also written a letter to the council. Speaking in favor: Mrs. Peter Bartowick, Arthur Wilde, Mrs. H. A. Petersen; Mrs. L. F. Squire. The council received letters from Dagmar Raphael and from Mrs. H. A. Petersen, supporting the fire department, which had requested the street openings three months ago.

The council gave the pine at Monterey and Second six months' reprieve. They will look into its health again on the December tree tour. It has frequently been reported dying, dead, dangerous.

Visiting the city's natural park ravine that controversially is being used for a street department dump, the council voted to spend approximately $3,500 for a drain to tie together two ends of the drainage system, and to complete the fill.

For the rest of the tour the council inspected sidewalks and driveways. They agreed that the wooded curb on Dolores street near the Red Cross and American Legion buildings should be repaired on a co-operative basis, the Legion and Red Cross paying for materials, the street department doing the work.

The three black acacias which are destroying the curb with their roots on San Carlos Street in front of the Ricketts building are to be removed, but not until four pines have been planted and have made good growth, the council decided. Meanwhile the outer edge of the sidewalk is to be shaped to curb grade. They referred the problem of the driveway at Guadalupe and Third, built above grade without permission, to City Attorney John Morse. The attorney will also advise the council on the driveway at Dolores and First.

Council approved the oversized driveway at Woods School.

Planners To Have Aesthetic Advice From Arts Board

judge the merits of buildings in respect to keeping Carmel beautiful. He stated the planning commission should "value our opinion."

Arts Commission Secretary Larry Rose concurred, remarking that the planning commission was the most beleaguered body in the city. "They will more than welcome interest in their work."

Arts Commissioner Laurence Barretto, felt that architects should decide on new buildings. "As a writer I am not qualified to judge," he objected.

A motion, offering arts commission aid to the planning commission, was proposed by Arts Commissioner Nelo Drizari and approved by other commissioners present.

Mr. Drizari then drew the arts commissioners' attention to the need for informational directional signs for the Forest Theater. He suggested these be placed on both sides of Ocean Avenue at the intersection of Mountain View Street.

These signs to be artistic, preferably of carved wood. The signs would increase awareness of the city-owned Forest Theater and productions there, "Promote a project precious in the tradition and culture of Carmel," added Mr. Drizari.

Letters conveying the sign need were authorized by arts commissioners to be sent to both the city council and the planning commission at the suggestion of Mr. Drizari.

Mayor John Chitwood, total arts commission audience, remarked that need for these signs for the Forest Theater was a "recurring problem." He asked that a sketch of the proposed signs, such as the quick drawing made by Mr. Shoemaker, be sent to both bodies for consideration.

Mrs. Cooke asked that commendation be sent to the street department for the excellent present condition of the Forest Theater and grounds. Mr. Rose was authorized to communicate this praise to Street Superintendent William Askew.

Mr. Rose told arts commissioners that the portrait of the late John Catlin, former mayor, which was framed and hung in the city council chambers by the arts commission, was purchased by the city from the Carmel Art Association in 1941 for $75.

Additional persons named to the Arts Festival coordinating committee were announced by Mr. Drizari. They are Mrs. Gustav Erbe, Virginia Blair Hannon, Talbert Josselyn, Dr. E. Leigh Mudge, Robert P. Spencer, J. William MacLennan, Franz Van der Wal and Mrs. Gordon Harrison.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian

It may be that every living person who reads this piece is either grown middle aged or childless, but not knowing for sure about this, let me say that I know where a helpful pamphlet may be obtained for parents of teen age children. Or perhaps pre-teen-age children, if there is such a catagory. Anyway, the Public Library of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, has for free distribution a pamphlet entitled, All About Growing Up, which is designed to aid children to prepare for a well-adjusted growing up. We shall be sending for a copy, only one to a suppliant, and if you want a copy, send for it. The notice doesn't say so, but a self-addressed stamped envelope might be a nice idea. No need to sponge upon their generosity.

Some good notices have gone into advance publicity for a paperbound thing put out by W. M. Kiplinger and his staff. For 35 years they have been publishing the Kiplinger News Letter, which is wonderful. This book of theirs is called Your Guide to Higher Income. I hope it is and that you all read it and prosper.

Prospering in another field of endeavour was the subject of our next book which is a biography of Dubarry, mistress to Louis XV. The book was written by Stanley Loomis after years of research and portrays DuBarry as a kindly and amiable woman. In her review service, Kirkus gave it a star for excellence, and we hope you will too.

The man who wrote The Hidden Persuaders has a new one called The Status Seekers. After conducting hundreds of interviews, Vance Packard finds that many things contrive to establish your status in society and the class in which you live. The car you drive, the church you attend, the school you went to, even the pictures on your wall, all attest to your social class. Read this book and then start looking about you. Perhaps you can read not your past, but your present, in your surroundings.

All of us who loved The Wind in the Willows will enjoy a biography, it is a picture of the age of Kenneth Grahame. That he found it difficult to adjust to his age, impossible to face up to life, bothers us not at all because we love his work, especially the charming story of Rat and Mole and Mr. Toad. The author of this book is Peter Green. My own copy of The Wind in the Willows was illustrated by Arthur Rackham, but the one done by E. H. Shepard is nice, too.

Whether you travel by plane, by bus, by boat, or by arm chair, you should read Report from Practically Nowhere by John Sack. The author personally visited all of these countries and if you are one who has never before heard of most of them, you are in good company. So all aboard for Monaco, Liechtenstein, San Marino, The S.M.O.M., Athos, Sharja, Swat, Amb, Punial, and Sikkim. I'll be back in Carmel by next Thursday, and I'll see you then.

Shirley Turner

Shirley Randolph Turner collapsed on July 3 while shopping near Salinas and was pronounced dead on arrival at the Salinas Valley Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Turner was born in St. Louis, Missouri, on July 31, 1889. He and his wife, Mabel, were married in Minden, Nevada, on August 30, 1935. They moved to Carmel from Sacramento 11 years ago and lived at San Luis and San Juan Roads. Since 1939 Mr. Turner had been a special representative of the Occidental Life Insurance Company.

Survivors, other than his wife, are a son, Shirley Randolph Turner Jr. of Piqua, Ohio; four daughters, Miss Charlotte Turner of Cincinnati, Ohio, Mrs. Beverley Bailey of New York City, Mrs. Joyce Klein of Long Island and Mrs. Gertrude Schoenberg of New York City; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Thomas of Essex, Connecticut, and Mrs. Marietta Cogswell of Williamsport, Pennsylvania; and five grandchildren.

Private funeral services were held on Monday afternoon in the Paul Mortuary. Burial followed at Cypress Lawn Memorial Park in Colma.

Community Chest Drive Chairmen Named For Carmel

"Plans for the Community Chest Fund Campaign for 1960 are well under way," said Robert McKever, Jr., general campaign chairman as he announced today that Mrs. John A. Clancy will head the Carmel residential chest drive and Mr. Lars Svendsgaard will serve as chairman of the Carmel business area. Mrs. Rogers P. Parratt will serve as drive chairman in Carmel Highlands.

There are 22 agencies beneath the Chest umbrella this year with the addition of two new agencies, the Monterey Peninsula Committee on Alcoholism and the Seaside Recreation Club.

Chest officials announced that during 1959 Carmel will receive $23,200 in benefits from Chest supported agencies. This amounts to 19 per cent of the total amount raised in 1959. At the present rate of increase it is estimated that in 1960 Carmel will call on the 22 agencies for direct services amounting to more than $30,000.

Carmel budget for 1960 is $37,600, 20 per cent of the total 1960 budget.

SPRING IN THE HUDSON VALLEY

The swift and easy sequence of the flowers,
Bright facets of eternity in time—
Define the inner rainbow of the hours
And make the rhythmic count of day sublime.

Who would discern within the changing light
This ever-varying glory and design?
Such beauty would be hidden from the sight
Without these forms to give it life and line.

A presentation from the great unknown
The flowers of spring awaken one by one.
They open silently, in silence grown,
In silence fading when their time is done.
These we can compass in their bright estate
Who find the light of timelessness too great.

—DORA HAGEMEYER.

TO A MOUNTAIN CLIMBER

(To a nephew, E.D.L.)

Youth is the time to climb the mountain's peak high, higher than the evergreens can grow, and then to pause and with deep-seeing eyes to try to understand the depths below.

Youth is the time to struggle up t'ward truth,
(that beauteous thing that often hides in pain,) but, mind you, should you take it in your hand, you may not ever be a child again.

While you are standing there on lofty spot, seeking to find the path that you should take,
your ears become receptive to such sounds as all of time and all of distance make.

You then will sense great music as mens' tears,
and rarest flowers—offerings of decay,
the climber then will come into his own
for youth is lost and man is found—that day.

—ALICE COGGINS LONGAKER.

SAND - STING

There was no force, no blow,
But a word lightly spoken,
Turn of the undertow
And the crest swiftly broken,
Halting the surge, the flow
Of the bright rushing laughter,
Blurring the billow-glow;
Turmoil ebbing after.

Lost . . . was the way to shore
In a quick backward motion,
Deluge of doubt that tore
At the morning's calm ocean,
Tide-tug of fear that bore
In its wake evil churning;
Only a word can pour
Sand-sting upon yearning.

—CONSTANCE WALKER.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The spiritual power of Christ Jesus' teachings and example will be emphasized Sunday at Christian Science services in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Sacrament."

One of the key statements of Jesus to be read from the Bible is this from John (6:63): "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life."

Correlative citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include (25:26-31): "Implicit faith in the Teacher and all the emotional love we can bestow on him, will never alone make us imitators of him. We must go and do likewise, else we are not improving the great blessings which our Master worked and suffered to bestow upon us."

The Golden Text is from II Corinthians (13:14): "The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost, be with you all."

"WHERE TOWN AND COUNTRY SHOPPER MEET

Dr. Lert Had A Lot Of Lehar Before He Conducted Verdi

evolving music is the sort of thing he most enjoys, Dr. Lert says.

Before coming to America in the 30's, Dr. Lert had been general music director for opera and symphony in the Mannheim, Germany, Conservatory, and conductor of the Berlin State Opera. Yet he chose to go into semi-retirement as a conductor in this country and turn his efforts instead to teaching.

"American pioneers came and worked the soil," he explains. "When I got here I wanted to earn my place as an American pioneer too, so I have tried to do the same. And the 'soil' I work is undeveloped musical talent."

Besides his work in Pasadena, which includes direction of the state-wide youth symphonies, he founded the Academy of Music in Santa Barbara in 1947 and sought Milhaud, Schoenberg and other leading professionals for its staff.

Among other modern composers frequently mentioned by Dr. Lert are Roy Harris and Czech-born Ernst Krenek, who is one of this year's staff members at the league workshop.

As artistic director of the workshop, Dr. Lert is concerned with all phases of its operation. Working with the conductors, however, is his specialized contribution.

"A conductor must convey the feeling of the music to the orchestra. He is an actor, a special kind of actor with his back to the audience. He must himself be in the mood of the music. He must become as brooding as Wagner, as lonely as Brahms, as dramatic as Verdi.

"Like any actor, he is no good if he is reading his part, tied to the score—that's why most good conductors work from memorized scores—or if he shows waste motion, over-playing his role, or if he reflects a feeling at cross purposes with the music.

"The conductor must make each individual orchestra member feel the wholeness of the music, and make him feel a part of it."

And how do you become a conductor? Some learn, Dr. Lert says, and some are born to it, like Leonard Bernstein.

His own career was a little of both. He began as a symphony violinist, then had an opportunity to conduct. An agent saw him. He had studied horn, clarinet, violin and composing at the Vienna Conservatory.

"But I still had to conduct The Merry Widow a hundred times before I was allowed to touch Il Trovatore," said the veteran operatic conductor. "Young Americans make a mistake when they go to Europe to take a job in an opera house. They stay a year and still are never allowed to conduct. They begin with only the 'dirty work'—drill the chorus, serve as piano accompanist, that sort of thing. It's a long road up."

This year was Dr. Lert's fourth at Asilomar. He is occasionally accompanied to the Peninsula by his wife, novelist Vicki Baum. One son, Wolfgang, is editor of Ski magazine in southern California, and another, Peter, is an associate professor of agriculture in Berkeley and a government farm advisor.

It's been a long time since 17-year-old Richard Lert and 26-year-old Bruno Walter were promising students in Vienna and the latter grew a beard because he looked "too young to be a conductor."

In a recent recorded interview, Walter was asked what he planned to do now. "I'm still going to learn," was the answer. Walter subsequently wrote Lert with regard to Dr. Lert's success as a teacher, "Now is your time to reap what you have sowed." And he does, Dr. Lert says, in satisfaction.

A. T. Shand

Arthur Trevelyan (Trev) Shand, a realtor here for 38 years, died on July 2 in his home in Carmel Valley after a year of ill health. He was active in many phases of the life and growth of this community, known for his ready wit, and will be remembered for his quick smile of greeting and blue eyes which twinkled in his tanned face under a broad-brimmed hat.

On March 1, 1958, he sold his business to Robert E. Ross but retained his desk in the Ross office and continued to occupy it until a few weeks ago. Last March he was voted a life membership in the Carmel Board of Realtors. One of his large real estate transactions was the sale of the 2,400 acre Aguajito track, owned by Will Jacks, to E. L. Tobin, president of the Hibernia Bank of San Francisco. He was instrumental in acquiring Camp Pico Blanco in the Little Sur country for the Boy Scouts.

Mr. Shand was a charter member of the Carmel Rotary Club. He served for 10 years on the Carmel Sanitary Board and was active in Carmel school campaigns.

His marriage to Marian Daniels took place on March 17, 1926. Mrs. Shand came to Carmel the same year as Mr. Shand and they met soon after their arrival. Following their marriage, Mrs. Shand joined her husband in his business. Both were interested in horseback riding and Mr. and Mrs. Shand, on their horses, became familiar Carmel figures.

Mr. Shand was a lover of wild life and the outdoors. His hobby was woodworking. Several years ago he purchased a home in Carmel Valley. He was born on March 17, 1880, in West Brighton, Staten Island, New York.

Besides his wife he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Philip G. Preble of Carmel and Miss Agnes B. Shand of Morelia, Mexico; a brother, Kenneth Rae Shand of Montclair, New Jersey; and several nieces and nephews.

Private funeral services, conducted by Dr. Joseph M. Ewing, pastor of the Carmel Presbyterian Church, were held on Monday morning in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea Crematorium.

GROW YOUR OWN LUSTROUS

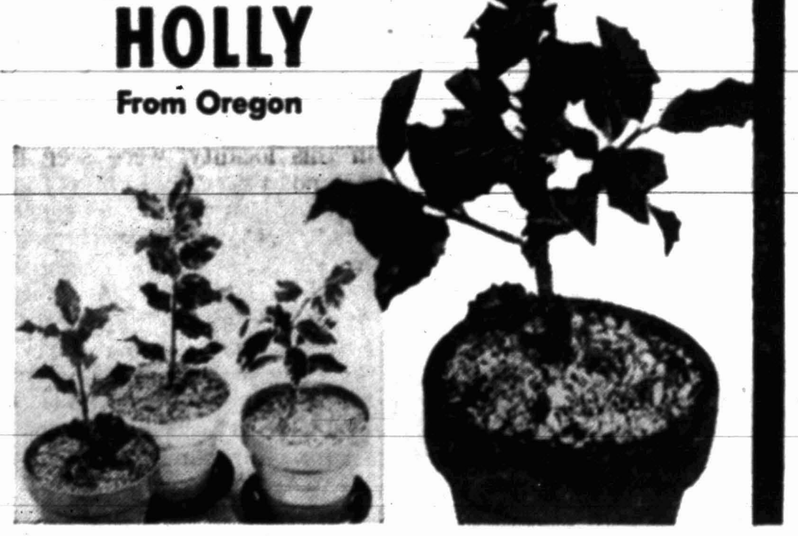
From Oregon



Start now with a "family" of
3 "PRIZEWINNING" TREELETS
(2 "Ladies" — green and variegated 1 "Knight" — green)
$10 postpaid, satisfaction guaranteed. (A single tree, $4.00)
Fertilizer (odorless) for a year supplied with every order for three trees

Don't let the season fool you . . . it is possible to start growing your Christmas holly right now. You begin your holly hobby with treelets in pots, indoors or out. Whenever you wish you put them in the ground. You follow our special fertilizer plan, for which we furnish a year's supply free with every order for three or more trees.

Sunset Mountain Farm is between the Pacific and the mighty Columbia River. There are moist breezes from the ocean and mild zephyrs from the river's broad expanse. No wonder Oregon is the holly center of the world. It's an ideal climate to start hollies.

Treelets Hormone-treated

So tough are these little two-year old treelets that I can ship them anywhere, anytime. I have given them special hormone and fertilizer care to make them strong and well-rooted. Now, with these roots well developed, the little trees will add growth rapidly on top of the six or eight inches they had at the end of the winter.

You will be the envy of your neighborhood, for hollies are wonderful "show pieces". In Oregon untrimmed hollies grow to a height of 20 to 30 feet. They never lose their leaves. If you have a yard or acreage, you can make money with a holly arboretum, or hedge.

Right now I offer you a "family" of three "Prizewinning" treelets with a year's supply of fertilizer, for $10, postpaid, satisfaction guaranteed.

Varieties Are Proven

These "Prizewinners" are selected and proven varieties of true English holly. The green varieties in the "family" are lustrous and deep in color. The cream and green variegated leaves will add a different decorative touch to wreath or spray. So different is variegated, as a matter of fact, that not so long ago it was a rare species.

You need both male and female trees to produce berries . . . that's the reason for the "family". Once they start blooming in normal season you can expect berries by Christmas for these "youngsters" come from stock that matures berries early.

Order Right Away

When our propagating benches are emptied it will be a year before more treelets are available. So I urge you to order now to get started right away. Remember, satisfaction is guaranteed. References: Chamber of Commerce, Bank of St. Helens and U. S. National Bank, all of St. Helens. Member, Oregon Holly Growers Association.

Money does grow on trees!

With a yard, or with acreage, there's profit for you in holly. That's because there isn't enough being grown today. With normal care your trees will pay for themselves in a few years. From then on each crop is velvet to you. Here is a specialty crop for small acreages, for part time farming or even absentee ownership.

Write me for more information and prices on trees in quantities.

Charlotte Boyd Wed Yesterday

Birch organ music was played by Robert Forbes while guests gathered in All Saints' Episcopal Church yesterday afternoon for the 2:00 o'clock wedding of Charlotte Ruth Boyd to Yates Ford Hallam. Bouquets of white summer flowers, placed at each side of the chancel steps, framed the wedding party as they stood before the altar during the marriage service read by the Reverend David Hill.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Hal Boyd. A tucked panel edged with French lace centered the long-sleeved fitted bodice of her ivory peau de soie dress below the square neckline. A similar panel was repeated on the front of the full skirt which extended into a chapel train in back. Her fingertip veil fell from a crown of seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and green ivy.

Mrs. James Hallett (Carol Boyd) was her sister's matron of honor. The other attendants were Mrs. William Edgington of Mountain Ranch, and the bride's cousins, Mrs. Hisham Nuseibeh of San Francisco and Mrs. Norman Wintemute of Palo Alto. They were dressed alike in polished cotton gowns printed with green roses in moire effect on a white background. Bell skirts fell from the fitted short-sleeved bodices. Their small hats matched their dresses and their flowers were arrangements of white Esther Reid daisies and ivy.

Mrs. Boyd, the bride's mother, attended the ceremony in a lavender lace sheath dress worn with pink accessories and a corsage of pink elfin roses.

William Edgington was the groom's best man and ushers were the bride's brother-in-law, James Hallett, and the groom's uncle, Richard Hallam of Rio del Mar.

Bouquets of white summer flowers decorated the home of the bride's parents in Carmel Highlands for the wedding reception. White carnations mingled with maidenhair fern surrounded the three-tiered wedding cake on a white-covered table, carrying out the green and white color scheme of the wedding.

The bride changed to a white raw silk sheath dress, white coat and hat with olive green accessories before leaving with the groom to drive to Washington, D.C. They plan to stop for a week in the Colorado Rockies on their way East.

A graduate of Bay School and Carmel High School, Class of 1955, the bride graduates next June from Antioch Colege in Ohio where she is an education and biology major.

Her husband, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Hallam of District Heights, Maryland, attended the Woodward School in Washington, D.C. before entering Antioch from which he graduated as a business administration major in 1957. He is now a graduate student in accounting in the American University in Washington, D.C., where the young couple plan to live.

Audubon Bird Walk

Twenty-three persons gathered at Corralitos last Monday morning for the second monthly outing of the summer, sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society. Joining the local group were some members of the Santa Cruz Bird Club, an affiliated organization. The party, led by Fremont Ballou, traveled up Eureka Canyon under the welcome shade of the redwoods, the day being quite warm. Stops were made along Corralitos Creek to observe the wealth of bird and plant life. Continuing up the mountain, by way of Highland Way, godetias, chaparral pea, golden yarrow and other wildflowers brightened the roadside. Lunch was enjoyed under the trees at Camp Loma, where more wild flowers and birds were observed. Among the latter, a colony of purple martins, rare in this locality, were seen flying around the dead top of a tall Douglas spruce, in the holes of which they had their nesting places.

Connie And Jeff Married

Constance Joanne Chedester and Jeffrey Hadyn Smith were married on July 1 in Faith Lutheran Church in Reno by the Reverend A. Johnson. The bride's mother, Mrs. Paul Chedester, the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip C. Smith of Jack's Peak, and the groom's sister, Mrs. Vincent Pahl, drove to Nevada with the young couple and were present at the ceremony. Mr. Smith was best man for his son and the bride's attendant was Mrs. Pahl.

For her wedding Connie wore a tan nubby silk sheath dress with puffed sleeves, a tan veil hat, white shoes and gloves. Ribbon streamers fell from the nosegay of white carnations and bouvardia which covered the white Bible she carried.

The bride and groom are living in Fresno where Jeff is working in his father's clothing store until August 1 when he leaves for six months' service with the Coast Guard and Connie plans to return to Carmel.

Both Connie and Jeff graduated from Carmel High School in June. Mrs. John Murray (Pat Chedester) of San Rafael is Connie's sister.

The groom's parents are at present on a trip to British Columbia. His sister leaves soon to join her husband in Japan where Mr. and Mrs. Smith will visit her next year on a journey around the world.

Three Births In Two Days

Mr. and Mrs. Pearson Wilmot had three grandchildren in two days two weeks ago. On June 27 their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Roberts, became parents of a first child, Michael Pearson at the Peninsula Community Hospital. His birth weight was six pounds and he was 19 inches long.

The next day Mrs. Robert Newby, another daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot, gave birth to twins in San Luis Obispo.

Paternal grandparents of Michael Roberts are Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Roberts of Carmel Valley.

Sally Spurr June Bride

The altar of All Saints' Episcopal Church was banked with white gladioli and stock on June 27 for the marriage of Sally Spurr to Robert Edgar Braddy III. The Reverend David Hill performed the afternoon ceremony. Robert Forbes, church organist, played the wedding music.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her stepfather, G. D. Hodgson of Carmel. She wore the wedding dress which her sister, Mrs. Warren E. Conrad of Los Gatos, wore for her marriage. The white embroidered organdy gown had a fitted bodice with cap sleeves and a full tiered skirt which extended in back into a chapel train. An organdy cap, trimmed with pearls, held her waist-length net veil in place and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Conrad was her sister's matron of honor and bridesmaids were Ann Luker and Constance O'Connor. They wore similar dresses of white nylon over shell-pink taffeta with matching pink taffeta cummerbunds fastened with a bow in back. Embroidery edged the sleeves, necklines and hems of the dresses. Their bow headbands matched their sashes and they carried pale pink carnations.

Jeffrey Jordan of Stockton, son of the bride's cousin, was ring bearer.

Mrs. Hodgson attended her daughter's wedding in a light blue silk crepe sheath dress, matching tiny feather-trimmed hat and a corsage of deep blue delphiniums.

Mrs. Alfred H. Constans of Santa Ynez, the groom's mother, was attired in a green and black figured cotton sheath, black hat and accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Donald Bunse of Salem, Oregon, was best man for the groom. Ushers were Walter Solberg, Lynn Jackson and George Gillen, classmates of the groom in the Russian department of the Army Language School.

The reception after the ceremony was held in La Playa Hotel. Pale pink carnations and gladioli decorated the rooms and the bride's table and were placed around the wedding cake. The bridal couple toasted each other from an antique German wedding cup, an heirloom in the groom's family. The groom drank from the top of the silver vessel and the bride from a separate lower section.

They are now living in Monterey while the groom completes his course at the Language School. He is a graduate of Willamette University in Salem, Oregon. His father, Robert Edgar Braddy Jr., is at present living in Monterey.

The bride is a graduate of both Sunset and Carmel High Schools. She continued her education at San Francisco State College and was in her senior year prior to her marriage. This summer she is employed at Woods School in the Carmel recreation program.

Jan Married In Mission

Jan Breta Johnson, daughter of Mrs. Eugene Duke Mater of Carmel Highlands and Philip Johnson of Richmond, was married to George Robert Amorino in Carmel Mission on June 27. The Reverend Bernard Cummins of San Rafael celebrated the Nuptial Mass before family members and close friends of the bride and groom.

The bride wore an embroidered white organdy dress over pink taffeta. A tiny cap of flowers and pearls held her fingertip veil in place. She carried a white satin missal from which fell a cascade of pink elf roses and white bouvardia.

Carolyn Harley of San Francisco was her attendant wearing a pale yellow chiffon gown. Yellow roses and stephanotis were combined in her bouquet.

Ronald Bond of Sacramento was best man and Mr. Mater gave his stepdaughter in marriage.

Mrs. Mater attended the wedding in a blue chiffon dress with a matching flowered picture hat and a corsage of roses. The groom's mother, Mrs. George Amorino of Honolulu, wore a pink lace dress, matching hat and a pink corsage.

A wedding luncheon at the Mark Thomas Inn followed the 11:00 o'clock marriage. Pink carnations and white gladioli decorated the table with gardenias circling the wedding cake.

The bridal couple will live in Walnut Creek. The groom is employed by a finance company in Concord. He graduated from St. Mary's College in June.

CARMEL BABE RUTH NINE DIVIDES PAIR

Bob Henny's Carmel Babe Ruth squad got an even break in two games over the weekend, bowing to the powerful Monterey Merchants, 5 to 0, on Saturday and edging arch-rival Pacific Grove, 3 to 2, on Sunday. The Carmel lads ran into too much pitcher in the person of Bruce Von Hoff on Saturday when the classy Monterey High righthander set them down with only two hits. Dan Holman and Don Clark were the only Carmel hitters to solve the offerings of Von Hoff, both getting singles. David Harber struck out 10 and pitched a six-hitter for Carmel but it is tough to win when your mates don't get a run.

Forrest Cornwall survived streaks of wildness to post a 3-2 verdict over Pacific Grove as his teammates backed him up with six hits and some good base running. The slender righthander doled out two hits over the seven-inning route and helped his own cause by driving in a run. Mike Cole and David Rosenkranz rapped out clutch hits for the winners while Steve Fairfield saved the game with a great outfield throw which nipped the tieing run at the plate.

Visitors Enjoy Mountain Outing

Friday morning 15 people, most of them Sierra Club members, gathered at China Camp on Chews Ridge for a three day trip across the Santa Lucia Mountains to Post Ranch, Big Sur. The trip was arranged and led by Joseph Wampler of Berkeley, who conducts similar wilderness tours in the Sierra Mountains, Havasu Canyon and Mexico. Horses were available for packing camp gear and for those who wished to ride, but most of the group chose to make the some 30 miles on foot. Local people on the trip included Lyndon Ballou, formerly of Santa Barbara, now living in the Carmel Valley and his brother, Fremont Ballou, of Carmel. Perfect weather made the trip very enjoyable.

this sort of activity for me, since I was at Carmel, with friends and flowers and sunshine to cheer me on.

It is such a real pleasure to be reminded of the west coast and the superb American qualities that influenced me and helped me so much. I wish that every Britisher could have had my privileges and that more Americans could share our heirlooms and cultural treasures here. Each nation has such wonderful gifts that one can but be in love with the world (at the moment, anyway!)

Every good wishes.

Parking License Proposal Rouses Council, Citizens

sales tax revenue this year than last. You wouldn't make up in your parking licenses what you'd lose in sales tax."

Robert Spencer, stationery store proprietor: "He can't be serious."

Mrs. John Chitwood: "The county could get into the spirit of the thing and charge us a license for going out of the city limits."

Chief of Police Clyde Klaumann: "How would you get it enforced? It should come under the tax collector's office."

Mayor John Chitwood: "You'd have to check 15,000 cars a day coming down Ocean Avenue."

Chief Klaumann: "How many men will you give me for that."

Mayor: "Oh, a hundred, two hundred . . ."

Norberg: "This is a serious proposal. The state tax revenue is based on population. We have less than 5000 people. We get no more than some one-horse town in the San Joaquin Valley yet we have to serve this enormous traffic, and most of them go to the beach, buy nothing, and get a tank of gas at Seaside on their way home."

Councilman Buffington: "How are you going to differentiate among those who do and don't spend money here, get a financial statement from them?"

Spencer: "On July 4, 200 people visited my shop; 100 were cash customers; not 10 of them were local residents. I couldn't survive on the business from the citizens of Carmel."

A general appeal to the attorney —how could anything so fantastic be legal?—brought the comment from Attorney Morse: "There is no precedent for this but it is logical to believe if it is legal to sell parking by the hour in a meter, you can charge for it by the year.

Building Inspector Floyd Adams: "If you sell them parking wouldn't you have to guarantee the parking?"

Attorney Morse: "The Fish and Game Commission collects a license fee but it doesn't guarantee fish."

Councilman May: "Let's have parking lots at the top of the hill and an elephant train."

Chief Klaumann: "He's right in one respect. People from the Valley walk up and down and buy things, but we do have a type of people Norberg is talking about. Down at the beach every third car has a military sticker, and they don't buy."

Raggett: "Is this a revenue producing idea or a deterrent?"

Norberg: "Partly deterrent but also revenue producing."

Mayor Chitwood put a stop to the circus by appointing Norberg "a committee of one or 100, to study the matter and report back to the council in October, November or December."

Councilman Knight had the last word: "The solution is parking meters."

GARDENS ON MPVS TOUR ANNOUNCED

The eighth annual MPVS Garden Tour on August 12 again benefits the Visiting Nurses Association of the Monterey Peninsula.

Mrs. E. J. Murray, chairman of the garden tour, at a recent luncheon meeting at her home commended her committee for the innovations that will be added this year to the tour.

Miss Frances F. Harrison and Mrs. Thomas K. Perry reported the two additions; new designs for outdoor living through displays of patio furniture, and modeling of clothes that will forecast fall fashions appropriate for 'round the clock activities on the Peninsula.

The garden selection committee, Mrs. Edward P. McMurtry, chairman, disclosed the list of gardens to be on the tour.

Gardens on Carmel Point will be those of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Moller, Mrs. Charles A. Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph ver Mehr, Jr.

At the entrance to Pebble Beach, the garden of Mrs. Green Chapman, and in Pebble Beach three gardens, two of which are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Devlin and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Singleton.

Mrs. McMurtry was assisted in selecting the gardens by Mrs. Archer Allen, projects chairman, Mrs. Elizabeth Cameron Clemons, Miss Frances F. Harrison, Mrs. Francis Moulton, and Mrs. Murray.

Other chairmen working to perfect details of the event are Mrs. Allen, project chairman, Mrs. N. Barrows, garden descriptions; Mrs. Perry Boggess, typing; Miss Peg Brown, tickets; Miss Edna M. Browning, guest book; Mrs. Wendell M. Coates, ticket tables; Mrs. Manfred Crane, refreshments; Mrs. Arthur Dresser, advertising; Miss Francis F. Harrison, fashion show and garden furniture; Miss Claire M. Kennedy, project treasurer; Mrs. August R. Nieto, table decoration; Mrs. W. Lincoln Noelle, traffic and transportation; Mrs. Rollo H. Payne, posters; Mrs. Thomas K. Perry, assistant to Miss Harrison and maps; Mrs. Rudolph ver Mehr, Jr., publicity; Mrs. G. W. C. Whiting, printing; and Mrs. Ralph W. Wood, chairman of hostesses.

Fire Chief Reports $34,341 Damage From Fire In Past Year

This report is a summary of the activities of the Carmel-by-the-Sea Volunteer Fire Department from July 1, 1958 to June 30, 1959.

Total real property protected (assessed valuation) $12,000,000.00.

Fire calls answered: still alarms 51, general alarms 18, total calls 69.

Average three calls per month. Of the total fire calls 38 were in residential district; 31 yere in the business district.

A total of 729 men responded to fire calls. A total of 7,935 feet of hose was laid at working fires and a total of 84 feet of ladders were raised.

Real estate and personal property involved in answering fire alarms amounted to approximately $1,833,900.00 (replacement cost).

The loss resulting from fires was approximately $34,341.50.

The men in the department spent 1,260 man hours in training. This includes state fire training programs in which most of the members participated.

One member of this department, Roy Walls, spent one week in Fresno for training purposes, attending an extensive program sponsored by the State of California Fire Training Division.

A total of 89 ambulance calls were made in the last year, and the department has set up a regular first aid program, drills being held monthly.

A total of 158 emergency calls were made by this department. This is an average of 13 emergency calls per month.

The California Water and Telephone Company with the cooperation of the city has made great improvements in the water system throughout the city. These changes were centered mainly in the business district on Junipero street and in the residential area around Casanova street.

All the projects that the department has outlined last year have been completed: radio room and office, tiled upstairs of fire house, installation of various hydrants throughout the city in areas where they were needed.

The real estate and personal property involved was high last year, but this was due to the fact that several fires were in hotels, motels and other buildings of high value.

Listed below are some of the causes of fires and alarms, one of the greatest causes being incinerators and bonfires being left unattended, mattresses on floor furnaces 2, careless smoking 4, grease fires 2, false alarm 1, control burn (out of control) 4, incinerators and bonfires (left unattended) 8, electrical fires 4, gas leaks 14, unknown 2, children with matches 3, automobile fires 3, chimney fires 4, hot ashes 2, suspicious 1, electrical appliances 3, smoke scare 3.

As in the past I feel the city should take time to thank the volunteer members who have so generously given their time and efforts.

And in turn the volunteer members wish to thank the other city departments and the council for cooperation in helping us do a better job for our community.

ROBERT E. SMITH, Chief
Carmel-by-the-Sea Volunteer Fire Department.
